FALL OF THE BAR IS THE INTOXICATING LOOK AT CHANGE

Join the author on his often dry, beer tap journey along New South Wales' forgotten beer byways as he discovers the history of many humble working-class pubs. Many of these old watering holes are under threat from redevelopment or have been displaced by a changing society.

The pubs studied include:

- The White Bay, The Bridge and the Terminus Hotel's in Inner-Sydney.
- The Railway, Commercial and Signal Hotel's at Werris Creek.
- The Star, The Empire and the Bellevue Hotel's at Newcastle.
- The Imperial and the Central Hotel's at Tamworth.
- The Hotel Dorrigo and the Commercial Hotel Dorrigo.
- The Royal, the Post Office, the Court-House and the Imperial Hotel's at Manilla.
- The Railway Hotel at Boggabri.
- The Railway Hotel at Warialda Rail.
- The Loftus Hotel at Junee.

FALL OF THE BAR is a soft covered book of two-hundred pages and includes historic Tooth and Co. black and white photographs, as well as including contemporary colour photographs of these iconic watering holes.
